Hasan Sadikin Hospital (RSHS) is the main teaching hospital affiliated with Universitas Padjadjaran (Unpad), serving as a crucial clinical education hub since the establishment of Unpad's Faculty of Medicine in 1957. As a university hospital, RSHS provides extensive learning opportunities for medical students, particularly those in the Specialist

Medical Education Program (PPDS). Thousands of prospective doctors and specialist trainees undergo clinical rotations and in-depth training at RSHS, guided by experienced clinicians and consultants in various medical departments.

This hospital plays a pivotal role in shaping competent and compassionate healthcare professionals by offering hands-on exposure to diverse clinical cases and real-time decision-making experiences. Beyond undergraduate and specialist medical education, RSHS also accommodates the training of students from health-related fields such as nursing, midwifery, pharmacy, public health, and medical technology.

Furthermore, RSHS is deeply involved in research and academic collaboration, working closely with Unpad and other institutions to support innovation and the advancement of medical science. Its dual function as a center for education and service makes RSHS an essential institution not only for academic development but also for improving public health outcomes in West Java and beyond.
